TRANSFORM YOUR Family Life

Have you ever considered that knowing God could have a positive impact on your family?

Meet Grant

“I grew up in a family that went to church every Sunday, and to be honest, I was never really a huge fan of having to go. I found it to be incredibly boring and unrelatable.

In my early twenties I moved interstate for work, which was awesome, but there were distinct periods where I can recall feeling really isolated and alone.

During this period I met a really friendly Catholic family that made an impact in my life. After I shared my story with them, they'd consistently invite me around for meals where they'd often spoil me with really nice food and drinks. But more than that, they included me in special family events such as birthdays and other special occasions and they really made me feel so welcome and I absolutely loved their company.

This family, they just were different. They were rich in love, they had warmth and kindness about themselves, and they always seemed to engage in healthy conversations. To me, their example of faith inspired me to invest in my own faith journey so that I too could perhaps have a family like theirs one day.

“They were rich in love, they had warmth and kindness about themselves...

And it was during this period when I was attending church that I was incredibly blessed to meet my wife. Eighteen years later, I now have an amazing family that tries to live out those exact same values that were modelled for me.

Looking at my life today, it is awesome, but it hasn't come without its challenges and to be honest so is my journey with the Catholic faith. In my opinion, it's been through the love of Jesus expressed through the warmth and kindness of other Catholics that's encouraged me and helped me to be a better husband and father today.

For the sake of my family, I'm just so grateful for that encounter and where it's led me.

That's where baptism led Grant.
Where might it lead you?
